

Vicar visits West Felton CofE Primary School

We had a visit from a local vicar (Sarah Burton) to answer a few questions but what did she say...

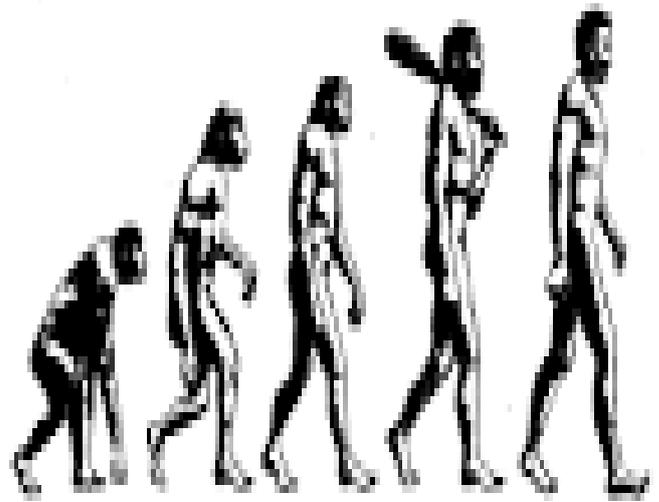

Today at West Felton CofE Primary School Sarah Burton— from our local church—came to visit to talk about Evolution and Christianity and her opinions on some questions...

The first Question was did you enjoy science as a child and did you know about Charles Darwin? She replied with “Yes I did enjoy Science as a child but my favourite subject was always maths.”

Then she was asked did you ever wonder about the conflict between science and religion? “No, I've never worried about the conflict at all,” she told us.

After those two great questions she was asked if you were in the Victorian times would you have sided with Darwin or not? And why? Sarah replied with “well that is a very interesting question and with all the Christians who did and did not - I would have sided with Darwin.”

Finally we was asked if you could go back and be a doctor would you or would you continue your life as a vicar? She replied with “No, I love my job and even though I liked working with medicines when I put on the white coat and stethoscope I knew it just wasn't me.”

Evolution

I enjoyed the vicar coming over I thought it would be interesting to see if she would agree or not. Her answers were thoughtful not just yes or no's she expanded and every answer in minute detail; like Charles Darwin when he drew bugs and animals to the thin pattern on a wing of a bug to the bug eyes with small pixelated and hexagonal sort of particles. The answers also made sense and it didn't sound like weird chemicals that doctors use, that I don't understand. Thank you for visiting us and answering our questions
